Responsive Design I'm designing a responsive website in html and css, but I'm stuck on one issue. I want to have a navigation which works on mobile devices as well. It consists of 3 links which have a class of "menu-item" when I click them, then it shows the drop down menu. When I click again, it hides the drop down menu. I also want to hide the menu when it is in mobile design. I've tried to accomplish this with media queries, but I'm not sure if it works because I'm not a web designer. Please help! A: First try to hide the navigation link and show your drop down menu with JS. If it's not possible, i advise to use CSS media queries to hide or show the element, like this: Menu item 1 Menu item 2 Menu item 3 .my-navigation { display: none; } @media screen and (max-width: 768px) { .my-navigation { display: block; } } Here you can find an example. Good luck Surgical therapy for melanoma of the head and neck. Q: Can Xcode be customized for users? I don't want to create a new account because I'm the only developer in my company, and I'm the only one that is doing iOS development (i don't know how to code). So what I was wondering is if Xcode can be customized for users so that they won't have to create new accounts every time they upgrade? Does anyone know what I'm talking about? A: Sure, there's a way to make it work. Your options are: Set up a new Xcode account for yourself with a new Apple ID (this way you'll have to download the new version anyway). If you are the only developer in your company, you should be able to download the new Xcode from the app store and install it on your own personal mac (make sure that you set the Xcode license to "In-House" when you purchase it).

Supported OS: Minimum: Recommended: Overview: There are many, many titles on the Gear VR store. This has led to some confusion on what is going to work with which titles. For the most part, what you can play is very similar between devices, but there are a few exceptions. For example, a couple of the titles which are available on the Gear VR store are not available on the Odyssey. This is due to the Odyssey having a single sensor camera and Gear VR having two. It does have a single sensor camera,
