I'm trying to get the path of the executable that launched the app. I'm not really doing anything with it, just a way to get the path to the.exe. How can I do it? A: There is no way to get the exe path from a Windows Store app, no. However, if you need the path for another reason (like getting a reference to the file that was the original installer) or just out of curiosity, it is possible to use `Process.StartInfo.FileName`. However, this is not guaranteed to always work: `var path = AppDomain.CurrentDomain.BaseDirectory; var basePath = Path.Combine(path, Path.GetFileName(Process.StartInfo.FileName));` In the end, the best way to get this information is using the Windows API functions (`CreateProcess`, `CreateProcessWithTokenW`).
